Jessica Bonsu is an associate in the Casualty Department, where she concentrates her practice on the defense of businesses, insurers, and self-insured entities in matters involving general liability, premises and retail liability, hospitality and liquor liability, product liability, and catastrophic claims litigation.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Jessica practiced insurance defense, representing businesses and insurers in a broad range of civil litigation matters. Her experience includes premises liability, hospitality liability, product liability, construction-related claims, employment disputes, and asbestos litigation. Earlier in her career, she served as a Staff Attorney with the Massachusetts Trial Court, where she worked closely with judges on a variety of legal matters and gained valuable courtroom experience.

As a graduate of Suffolk University Law School, Jessica served as Assistant Director of the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee and was selected as a Marshall-Brennan Constitutional Literacy Fellow, where she taught constitutional law and civic engagement to Boston public high school students. In recognition of her commitment to serving the community, she also received the Pro Bono Distinction Award.

Jessica is admitted to practice in Massachusetts, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Outside of her legal practice, Jessica enjoys traveling internationally, experiencing new cultures, and spending quality time with her husband and their two children.
