Jacksonville – 904.358.4229

Anna devotes her practice to the defense of employers and insurance carriers in workers' compensation matters. Throughout her 25 years in the legal field, Anna has worked in both private practice and in-house for national employers in the construction industry and multi-state nursing homes and assisted living facilities.

Anna collaborates closely with her clients to craft tailored strategies that drive favorable results. She brings particular experience in helping employers strengthen their risk management practices to prevent workplace injuries and reduce both financial and personnel impacts.

Early in her career, Anna had a clerkship with the Chief Judge at the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces in Washington D.C. and a state clerkship under several Judges in the 7th Judicial Circuit.

Anna graduated with honors from Virginia Commonwealth University with a B.S. in Sociology and B.S. in Psychology. She also received a Post Baccalaureate Certificate in Criminal Justice.
