

Bret E. Dubbert

Special Counsel

BEDubbert@mdwgcg.com

Orlando – 407.362.1013

Bret is special counsel in the firm's Casualty Department in the Orlando office. He focuses his practice on automobile negligence, insurance fraud, medical recovery actions, personal injury protection (PIP) litigation and general liability matters. Bret handles all aspects of litigation, including recovery actions, trials and appeals.

Bret has concentrated his practice in insurance defense litigation since 2009. He began his private practice with a large national defense firm before joining another national insurance services law firm, where he served as a partner and managed the firm's Orlando office. He joined Marshall Dennehey in 2026, continuing his representation of clients throughout Florida.

In addition to his litigation practice, Bret regularly presents seminars to insurance industry professionals on a variety of topics, including bad faith, ethical considerations in claims handling, insurance fraud, social media, Florida No-Fault Law and claims-handling strategies.

Bret earned his law degree from Barry University's Dwayne O. Andreas School of Law. He completed his undergraduate studies at Washburn University, graduating magna cum laude in 2006. While at Washburn, Bret played collegiate football on scholarship.

He has been admitted to practice in Florida.

Education

- Barry University, Dwayne O. Andreas School of Law (J.D., 2009)
- Washburn University (B.S., magna cum laude, 2006)

Admissions

- Florida, 2009

Practices

- Public Entity & Civil Rights Litigation
- Fraud/Special Investigation
- General Liability
- Premises & Retail Liability
- Automobile Liability
- Personal Injury Protection (PIP) Litigation

