Scranton – 570.496.4633

Hannah represents health care providers and institutions against medical malpractice liability claims. Grounding her approach in client-centered lawyering, Hannah works closely with her clients to deliver clear communication, practical guidance, and results that genuinely reflect their goals.

Hannah earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Pittsburgh, where she majored in Economics and double-minored in History and Africana Studies. She received her J.D. from the University of Baltimore School of Law. During law school, Hannah was an intern with the Honorable Abbe F. Fletman of the Philadelphia County Court of Common Pleas. She also advocated in the Circuit Court for Baltimore City as a certified student-attorney through the law school's Bronfein Family Law Clinic, and served as a member of the National Trial Team.

Outside of the office, Hannah volunteers for the American Bar Association Judicial Intern Opportunity program on their alumni committee, conducting interviews for potential candidates. Along with her dog Indy, she also participates at the University of Scranton's K-9s on Campus hosted by the Center for Service & Social Justice and the NEPA Youth Shelter.
